

ABSTRACT

A foldable frame for a tricycle powered by physical force and/or a motor; the frame having a number of 5 subframes interconnected to fold the component members of the frame; and the folding of a central subframe of the frame causes two lateral subframes supporting the rear lateral wheels to fold from a first fully unfolded position to a second fully folded position, and vice 10 versa.